David Goodwin has been working with Kids in trauma all over the world for over 35 years. His project Kidsreach offers resources to ministry agents working with children to help support those most vulnerable through difficult times. His engagement is simple and effective, sharing his years of experience.

Anthony Rees is the Old Testament Lecturer at UTC. He is committed to finding ways in which sacred texts - formed many ages ago and treasured by communities across centuries - might continue to speak to contemporary struggles. He will be exploring with us how we talk with children about the texts of trauma in the Bible.

Jules Wright, works at Wesley Canberra as the Children and Youth Worker. She brings her deep experience as an educator and sociologist to her job. She is exploring how we can engage children and families in spiritual practices online, talking specifically about her journey to the cross experience.
